

WESTMINSTER NOW FREE FROM DEBT

Last of $22,000 Paid—Raise Pastor's Salary Twice.
Double Missions.

Westminster Presbyterian church is at last free of debt. The last of the $22,000 indebtedness burdening the congregation for several years has been accounted for and a big celebration will mark the formal discharge of the final obligations as soon as the collection of a few outstanding subscriptions prepares the way for that event.

To free the congregation of debt has been one of the goals toward which the pastor, Dr. C. W. Sommerville, has worked ever since he began his ministry at Westminster. Much of the credit for the achievement is due, Dr. Sommerville says, to indefatigable efforts of Emmet E. Joyner, chairman of the ways and means committee, and C. J. Beasley, church secretary and treasurer, although the whole congregation has responded loyally to the task.

Not content with clearing the church of debt, the congregation proposes to clinch its victory by doubling its contributions to home and foreign missions. The salary of the pastor was raised twice last year.

The annual budget for the church will be raised Sunday, March 21, in an every-member canvass. George J. Sokert, 1302 Harbert avenue, has been appointed congregational manager for the canvass, and is now completing his organization. Two teams will visit every member of the congregation on the day set, and endeavor to raise the entire amount necessary to pay all the expenses of the church and the benevolence for the entire year.

On the same day the church will enter into the simultaneous revival campaign, in which some 60 or more Protestant churches will engage.

Famous Cellist Member Of Trio

MICHEL CHERNIAVSKY.

Mischel, one of the Cherniavsky brothers who will play at the Goodwyn Institute on Friday evening, March 12, under the management of Mrs. Jason Walker, is a wonderful player on the violin. He was born in Ulman, province of Kiev, in 1893. Unusual musical perception was also displayed by him at a very early age. He began at four years to study the violin, but at five began to play a cello that his father gave him one, and guided the happy fingers so skillfully that it was not long before the child played as well as the adult. Cherniavsky took his first lessons before the late Russian cellist, Werblowitz, a giant nearly seven feet tall, so impressed was the famous violinist with little Mischel's playing, that he hosted him on his apartment and carried him around the Conservatoire, proclaiming him a genius.

ELMAN REPERTOIRE IS VERY EXTENSIVE

The layman would be surprised if he were faced with the necessity of memorizing 15 or 16 pieces of poetry, and even the average fine musician finds it quite impossible to keep up a repertoire numbering more than 25 or 30 pieces that he can play at a moment's notice. How then is it possible for the best artists like Misha Elman, who came to Memphis Wednesday, March 9, at Goodwyn institute, under the management of Mrs. Jason Walker, to play 25 or 30 pieces which he memorized? There is of course no secret. Elman, 25, is of course not yet 25, but he has a memory that is almost perfect. He can remember 25 or 30 pieces of music, and he can play them at a moment's notice. This is not a trick, but a natural gift. This represents his actual working material, the works that he can and does play off-hand from memory.

Enthusiasm Marks Noontime Prayers For Big Revival

Between noon and 1:30 p.m. today, at the Goodwyn institute, a revival service was held. The service was held at the Goodwyn institute, a building on the corner of Main and Second streets. The service was held at the Goodwyn institute, a building on the corner of Main and Second streets.

Rev. J. C. Glass, president of the Christian Endeavor union, one of the leading leaders of Memphis, was to preside. Approximately 250 people, more than half of whom were men, attended the meeting Monday, and the leaders are greatly encouraged by the interest shown. All of the Protestant churches cooperating in the simultaneous revival campaign to begin March 21 are back of the noontime prayer meetings. All who are interested in the success of the revival are urged to make it a point to attend as many of the prayer meetings as possible.

Paying the Fiddler

It all depends on where you dance how much you pay the fiddler. And in the same sense the cost of motoring depends entirely on the kind of car you drive.
